

The new playground takes shape at Eunga Street Park, Tweed Heads South.

New look playgrounds coming soon

Works are taking place to substantially upgrade playgrounds at Cudgen Foreshore Park, Kingscliff and Eunga St Park, Tweed Heads South.

The local community shared their ideas on what features they would like to see as part of Council-run family fun days held late last year. Director Community and Natural Resources Tracey Stinson said the new equipment in both parks is the direct result of community input.

"We believe in making decisions together with the community and therefore it was great that so many people had their say on the new playgrounds. In Kingscliff this means a scooter track and new interactive play equipment. While in Tweed Heads South there'll be new seating and landscaping as well as monkey bars, swings and a slide," Ms Stinson said.

"Both parks will also have additional trees planted to provide extra shade. Work is progressing well and we're on track to have both playgrounds finished and open by the end of May."

The works were made possible after Council successfully received a grant from the Department of Family and Community Services worth a combined $100,000 to improve two parks in the Tweed.

Improvements at Cudgen Foreshore Park, Kingscliff:

- Interactive play equipment for 2–12 year olds with a unique nautical theme
- Seating areas
- Scooter track and pathways
- Natural play features and green open space
- Curved pathways and integrated natural elements

Improvements at Eunga Street Park, Tweed Heads South:

- Access for people with disability or mobility impairment
- Seating and picnic areas
- Monkey bars, swings and a slide
- Scooter track and pathways
- Natural play elements and green open space
- Curved pathways and integrated natural elements

Māori artefacts receive blessing before returning home

Three Māori artefacts began the first part of the journey back to their homeland at an emotional blessing ceremony at Council's Tweed Heads Administration Building.

The artefacts formed part of a rock and mineral collection gifted to Tweed Regional Museum from the estate of Adrian Smith, a passionate gem and mineral collector. A review of the collection found it contained artefacts which were identified as potential heritage objects.

The Māori artefacts consisted of three tools made from obsidian glass – a three-sided scraper and two bi-faced scrapers.

The artefacts are from the Kapowairua (Spirits Bay) area, on the northern tip of New Zealand's North Island. According to Adrian Smith's notes, they were found in March 1951.

Council felt it was important to repatriate the artefacts to the cultural custodians and they will be returned to the care of the Ngāti Kuri Trust Board, who represent the political, economic, social and cultural interests of the people of Kapowairua, the descendants of Ngāti Kuri.

The blessing ceremony was conducted by Archdeacon Errolline Anderson from the Brisbane Anglican Māori Mission on behalf of the Ngāti Kuri Trust Board.

The best specimens from the remaining Adrian Smith Collection are on permanent display at Tweed Regional Museum Murwillumbah, including 500 minerals and 300 gemstone specimens.

The Māori artefacts consisted of three tools made from obsidian glass – a three-sided scraper and two bi-faced scrapers.

Very neighbourly Angela!

Well done to Angela Maxwell who won a Weber BBQ for holding an event for Neighbour Day on 31 March – and because Angela is such an amazing neighbour she's donating the BBQ to Pottsville Beach Neighbourhood Centre!

More than 30 events were held for Neighbour Day as part of Council's work to develop more inclusive communities across the Tweed.

Newborn Ella loves her Baby Bundle! Image via NSW Health

Free bundles of joy!

Parents in the Tweed should now be receiving a Baby Bundle for their newborn. The bundle is given to parents and caregivers of every baby born from 1 January 2019 when discharged from hospital. To be eligible, parents need to live in NSW.

The contents includes a sleeping bag, play and change mats, baby toothbrush, board books, face cloth, and barrier cream. You can find out more on the NSW Government's website, simply search 'baby bundle' at www.health.nsw.gov.au

If your baby is born interstate, and you live in NSW, you can request a Baby Bundle via email MOH-BabyBundles@health.nsw.gov.au

The Baby Bundle will be delivered to a nominated NSW address free of charge.

New library loan trial

Richmond Tweed Regional Library is currently trialling two week book loans – instead of the previous three week loan period.

You can still renew items if there is no demand for the item (maximum of six weeks), and you can still borrow up to twenty items on your library card. In addition, during the trial there is no overdue fine for keeping items for a further seven days after the two week due date.

The library is collecting feedback on the trial until the end of August, before a final decision is made. You can give feedback in any branch or on the library's website at www.rtrl.nsw.gov.au

Draft Code of Meeting Practice

Each council in NSW is required to adopt a Code of Meeting Practice based on the Model Code of Meeting Practice prescribed under the Local Government (General) Regulation 2005. This code applies to all meetings of councils and committees of councils of which all the members are councillors. The Model Code of Meeting Practice is comprised of mandatory provisions, and non-mandatory provisions. Councils can choose whether or not to include non-mandatory provisions.

The Draft Code of Meeting Practice will be on exhibition until Tuesday 4 June 2019 and can be viewed on the project page at www.yoursaytweed.com.au/code-of-meeting-practice

Voluntary House Purchase Schemes and High Flood Hazard Area Policy – South Murwillumbah, Bray Park, Burringbar and Mooball

In accordance with adopted Floodplain Risk Management Plans, Council has prepared two Voluntary House Purchase (VHP) Schemes for the highest hazard flooding areas of the shire. Revised development controls and policy are also proposed to complement the VHP Schemes. The schemes and policy apply to South Murwillumbah, Bray Park, Burringbar and Mooball.

The draft plans and policy will be on exhibition for a period of 42 days from 24 April to 5 June 2019. Directly affected residents will be notified of further information sessions by mail.

The VHP schemes seek to protect residents from flooding by removing people and property from high hazard flooding areas

The draft plans and policy can be viewed at reception of the Murwillumbah and Tweed Heads Council administration buildings and Kingscliff library or online at www.tweed.nsw.gov.au/OnExhibition

Feedback on the draft plans and policy should be made in writing to the General Manager, Tweed Shire Council, PO Box 816, Murwillumbah NSW 2484 or by email to tsc@tweed.nsw.gov.au by Wednesday 5 June 2019.

Anyone wanting to discuss the draft plans and policy can contact Council's Engineer – Flooding and Stormwater Leon McLean by telephoning (02) 6670 2400.
