Facilitators

The Joyality Project delivers education and experiences to support and empower change makers with tools, resources and connection for driving effective positive action in these challenging times.

Joyality's accredited facilitators bring years of experience in social change, facilitation and psycho-education. In 2020, they expanded their team to include local youth leaders, who they trained in climate change resilience, peer support and facilitation skills. They run established intensive courses internationally, while holding a strong base of facilitators on the North Coast of NSW, the birthplace of Joyality.

Drawing on their highly acclaimed Joyality Toolkit, the team deliver programs for participants that generate an even deeper connection to their personal and professional 'why' to learn practical tools and strategies for social change, and wellbeing, and to collaborate and share resources.
